Poppy Day

Story of the Poppy—Sale to be Conducted by the American Legion Auxiliary, Saturday, May 29

In France and Belgium the people lived in misery, enjoying the freedom of their beautiful countries when one day came vast numbers of German soldiers who laid waste their land. The huge guns of the Germans did not spare anything, homes were wiped out, families separated, and thousands gave their lives at this time. The United States entered into this conflict, sending our boys across to help turn the enemy back that liberty might prevail in the world. As we all know, many of our men were killed or died in service "over there" and now lie buried in the soil they helped to save.

In the spring of 1919 after the war, on Flanders Field, where the firing had been terrible and thousands of soldiers had fallen in battle, in the midst of complete devastation, the poppies came up in abundance. The French women tell you today that the poppy is significant of the sacrificial blood of the boys who fell on Flanders Field. Those who have traveled through France since the war, tell us it is peculiarly true, that where the battle was the fiercest and the bloodshed the greatest, the poppies to this day grow most profusely.

Because of this close association to the supreme sacrifice made by the boys who fell in France, the poppy has become the Memorial Flower of the American Legion and Auxiliary—the emblem of a faith that is being kept through service to the living.

The war is not over for thousands of former soldiers who are now in the hospitals, nor is it over for the wife and little children who need assistance as the result of the inability of some man to care for them.

Do you know that the public will have an opportunity to help the great work of the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary and of paying a tribute to all who have sacrificed by buying a poppy on National Poppy Day, Saturday, May 29?

All Out Of Sorts?

So Was This Norway Woman Who Tells Her Experience

All too often women accept their pains and aches as natural to their sex. They fail to realize that weak kidneys are often blame for that backache, those headaches, dizzy spells and that tired, depressed feeling. Thousands have found new health and strength by helping the weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. This Norway case is one of many:

Mrs. Ray Bennett, 31 Deering St., says: "I had to be on my feet so long about my housework, that it put a strain on my back and kidneys. I had such backaches that I didn't have any strength to do my work. My back was also lame and stiff. My kidneys were weak and out of order, too. I used two boxes of Doan's Pills from Ashton's Drug Store and was cured."

The Rediscovery

A TALE OF GREAT MEN AND THE

By Don C. Selt, from the

In the last half of the nineteenth century no State occupied more room in the public mind than Maine. Its adoption of Neal Dow's "Maine Law" in 1852, prohibiting the sale of intoxicants, made a mighty stir in a liquor-laden land. It was variously imitated, New York actually following suit and in 1914 a prohibition law on its statute-books that lasted six months, or until the courts called it unconstitutional. The rest of the century came from lumber and stavesmen. "The Constitution," it called itself, and its motto, "Dringo," was fixed up in the motto of eminent men. What a crop it was, beginning with the unfortunate Jonathan Cilley—Virgil D. Harris, Almon C. Harris, Nathaniel S. Littlefield, Lot M. K. Harris, Nathan Clifford, Hannibal Hamlin, William Pitt Fessenden, James W. Washburn, Eugene C. Parker, the Hon. John Dingley, Sydney Hale, William H. Bradley, Rufus H. French, John W. Weeks, Charles J. Folger, James G. Blaine! I mention Blaine last because he was an importation from Pennsylvania, who came to Augusta as a partner in the Kennebec "Journal," where the State printing was done, and stepped easily into politics.

Besides statesmen, there were the humorists—John Neal, Seth Smith (Major Jack Downing), Charles Farrar Browne (Artemus Ward), and Edgar William Nye ("Bill" Nye). To these can also be added the trio of great singers—Lillian Norton (Mabel Normanby), Anne Louise Cary, and Emma Eames. Henry Wardsworth Longfellow was born there. So were the gallant soldiers Joshua L. Chamberlain and Oliver Otis Howard. These are the truest of the State's lights. The pine trees were cut away in good part before Neal Dow came, and were traded away to the West Indies for rum. The exporters drank the rum, so the result was one hundred per cent nothing as a producer of assets. The spruce since 1850 has been cut away, and were traded away to a Chicago swindler, but the scenery and the climate remain to save the State from the consequences of its economic convulsions. The incident with statesmen becoming small potatoes. The State began producing big ones of the real sort. Arrostoch County's plains are famous for the size and quality of its potatoes. Payson Tucker, who deserves a monument, really began the revelation that there was more to Maine than prohibition and saw logs. He was a pioneer in the Central Railroad in the eighties, built the line from Bangor to Mount Desert and made Bar Harbor accessible. He also constructed a Union Station at Bangor, which remains a model of convenience and beauty. Some "financiers" have been moved to their farm—Reverend Chas. M. Andrews Home from Massachusetts—Wedding Dance—Franklin Grange Meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. James Farum were the week end guests of their daughter, Mrs. Robert Douglas of Rumford.

Mr. and Mrs. Gertrude Pessan have moved to their farm at South Woodstock. James Brown from Auburn was the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, over the week end.

Henry Brown from Summit, N. J., and Edward Brown from Bridgton have been on a visit to their father and sister, George and Theresa Brown.

The school of instruction on poultry chairs was held at the Grange hall, Tuesday, May 18. The meeting was under the supervision of Miss Edna Cobb, State Clothing Specialist and County Agent. H. D. A. There was one delegate from Bethel and two from East Bethel present and three from our own Farm Bureau. Some of the ladies served a hot dinner for them.

Paul Willoughby from Dixfield was here on his way to Farmhouse, where he has work for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cushman carried James Brown to Mechanic Falls, Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ring and two children of Locke Mills were callers at John Hathaway's, Sunday.

Mrs. Edna Hovey returned home from her visit in Massachusetts, Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Elden Ross of Rumford and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker of Harrison visited their father, Gilman Whitman, last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter E. Swan and baby, Ariene, Clifford and Albion Taylor, Mrs. Lester Hathaway and three children, also Charles Walker of Harrison were callers at Elvira Whitman's, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Whitman and children, Delphina and James of Greenwood were callers at Estes Yates', Sunday.

Elmer Hayes of Greenwood worked two days for Estes Yates last week. Mrs. Anna Hayes visited one day there.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Melville gave a free dance at Dudley Hall in honor of their wedding, May 8th. There was a large attendance and they received nice presents and money. Mr. McDaniels and Mr. Durkin furnished music. Mr. and Mrs. John Hathaway from Littleton, Mass., was a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hathaway from Friday until Monday.

The Three Trees

Through sunshine and storm, through tempest and calm, the three oaks stood, their branches alternating between repose and strife, the playthings of the vagrant breezes.

It is 1780, old Caleb Andrews looks up from his death bed and out the window at a little sapling in the yard. "God bless you, little tree, for my son's sake," he murmurs and falls back, dead.

The little tree just stands and nods its head. It seems to understand. Caleb had planted this oak as a memorial to his oldest son, Henry, who died a hero's death at Bunker Hill.

It is 1864. The little sapling has grown to a sturdy oak. But look! It is no longer alone. By its side is a quivering little brother who looks up for protection. This tiny tree is imbued with the spirit of James the great grandson of Caleb Andrews, who gave his life at Gettysburg for the cause he believed right.

This tree was placed in its position by the proud little hands of James' brother. It is 1919. Three oaks stand in a row in the back yard. One, gnarled and old, the next sturdy and in its prime, the last weak and straggly, was placed there as a tribute to Captain Jack Andrews who gave his all at Chateau Thierry.

The wind sighs faintly through the leaves of the three oaks, and then grows stronger. Hark! What is that? The gnarled old oak is speaking, in a tone deep and low.

"I saw the beginning of this country. I am he who made that beginning possible." The wind dies down a bit, and from the second tree in a melodious voice comes the following words.

"I saw the preservation of the country. I am he who made that preservation possible." The wind dies down to a caressing breeze, hulling and soothing, then the tiny sapling speaks in a shrill piping voice.

"I saw the vindication of our country's honor. I am he who made that vindication possible." The little tree ceased speaking, and the old oak nodded its head gravely.

"I wonder," he said, "I wonder if we shall ever have a fourth brother with us?"

"No," quickly replied the other two. "No never!" And the old oak nodded its head, while the wind grew stronger.

A Big New England Event

Thousands Will Attend National Grange Session Next Fall at Portland

One of the outstanding events of 1926 for New England, and without doubt the largest fraternal gathering that has ever been held within its borders, will be the session of the National Grange, scheduled for Portland, Maine, November 10-18. It is the 60th annual gathering of this national farm organization and will draw delegates from more than 30 states, including those as far away as the Pacific coast. It is estimated that upwards of 15,000 Grange members will be in Portland at that time.

The theme of the nine days session will be the conferring of the Seventh Degree of the Order, the highest that is given, with an expected class of more than 1,000 candidates. At Boston in 1925 the degree was given to a class of 1,000 in Mechanics Building, which established a new record in the United States. That this history will be beaten at Portland is confidently expected as special trains will run from all directions, with reduced rates, and hundreds of automobiles will bring the members from a half dozen states. The Grange numbers more than 1,000,000 members in the six New England states, and 1,000,000 more in New York.

Portland is the big field to draw from within 200 miles of Portland. In New England alone there are more than 1500 local Granges, each an active community center.

During the month of October a series of special meetings will be held in each of the New England states for working the sixth degree, in preparation for the National Degree class at Portland in November, each of these events being held on a special occasion to awaken enthusiasm for the sixth annual convention.

The Portland program will be featured by speakers of prominence in national affairs while the session will consider many of the big national problems now before the nation.

The Portland gathering will be made a great rallying point of the rural people throughout New England, and will have far-reaching significance for the future of the nation. Last year's session was held at Sacramento, California, so now the organization makes a swing complete across the continent to Portland.

During the time of the session the Grange delegates will be taken on various sight-seeing trips, designed especially to show them the points of historical interest and give them a glimpse of agricultural conditions in the East. Many organizations in Maine are co-operating in plans for the big event, which will be of distinctive New England significance, and made more attractive by the truly national character of the gathering and the influential part which the Grange plays in the affairs of the nation.

Who Tends

The Furnace

Anyway?

We've talked to somewhere in the neighborhood of 7,000 home owners. "Who tends your furnace anyway?" has always been one of our questions. But we've never made any friends by asking it.

Fathers simply have to admit that if they're earning enough to support the modern family, their time's too valuable to put in at stoking a furnace.

And after mother has read an advertisement for Pond's Two Creams or Jordan Play Boys she certainly is in no mood to mix with shovel or coal bin.

It takes just one sentence to dismiss the absurd idea of anyone's maid playing stoker.

And as long as football, ice skating and coasting are in vogue, there's precious little use in counting on help from the youthful members of the family.

That leaves the janitor; not to speak of his pay check.

He alone can afford to be liberal minded on the subject of coal—he doesn't pay for it.

You cannot hire men to do what Oil-O-Matic does for you. So any home owner who "puts up" with coal does so now only because he wants to. This modern method, proven for nearly seven years, is available to every home owner with any type of good heating plant.

Williams Oil-O-Matic is the oil burner Underwriters' Laboratories list as standard (no part inside the firebox).

A storage tank for oil is installed. Your oil dealer keeps it filled. The oil is drawn in automatically from this tank into the Oil-O-Matic.

Your Oil-O-Matic is connected to the front of your present furnace or boiler. No part goes inside.

It supplies oil as fuel in place of coal, so nebulized as to produce an intense, pure flame. Hotter than a great bed of red hot coals.

In your living room is a thermostat connected with the Oil-O-Matic downstairs. This automatically starts and stops the burner as the room temperature varies.

Simply set the indicator at the temperature you enjoy and forget you have a heating plant. Everything else is done automatically.

Oil-O-Matic will be your choice if you want everything that science and the largest oil burner manufacturer can give you.

Lesson for May 23

ISAAC AND HIS WELLS

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 26:12-25.
GOLDEN TEXT—A soft answer turneth away wrath, but grievous words stir up anger.—Prov. 15:1.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Isaac Refuses to Quarrel.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Isaac Refuses to Quarrel.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Isaac the Peacemaker.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How to Deal With Aggressors.

Isaac was a child of the covenant and given in the time of the old age of Abraham and Sarah in fulfillment of God's promise (Gen. 15:1-5). His name means laughter, a reminder of the gladness of the heart of his mother when she learned that she was to have a son. As to character he was gentle, meek, meditative and peace loving. He was a remarkable contrast to his father Abraham. Two things may have affected him to his disadvantage.

1. The shadow of his illustrious father.
Sons of great and rich men commonly do not make much of life. The necessity of struggle is not forced upon them.

2. He was brought up as the only child of his mother.

The tendency in such a case would be to shield him from the necessity of self-effort so that he would be unable to meet life's stern realities. Every child should be compelled to think for itself and to fight its own battles. While not a mighty man by nature's gifts, through the blessings of God's grace he became the inheritor of the covenant promise. He was not only a meek man, but a man of prayer as well (Gen. 28:20; 32:9; 35:10).

1. Isaac in Gerar (vv. 12-17).

1. The Lord appeared unto him (vv. 1-4).

Because of famine in the land Isaac went into the country of the Philistines. This distress should have moved him to call upon the Lord (Gen. 26:13). It was better to suffer in the land than to go among the enemies of God's people. The Lord graciously appeared to him there and directed him not to go into Egypt, thus avoiding the error of his father.

2. His lapse (vv. 7-11).

He fell into the same temptation as Abraham many years before (Gen. 20:13). When one goes into the enemy's country he can expect to be tempted to do wrong.

3. His prosperity (vv. 12-17).

Isaac did not intend to make Gerar his permanent place of abode. He intended only to sojourn there. While there he sowed and reaped bountifully. This prosperity was no proof that God approved of his course.

II. Isaac's Enemies (vv. 18-22).

Isaac was not permitted long to enjoy this fruitful land. His prosperity incited the envy of the Philistines. Success in any calling in life will provoke envy. Ministers and Sunday school teachers sometimes become envious of each other. The Philistines desired Isaac to leave them. Wherever envy has begun its deadly work there must be separation. They took as the method of getting rid of him the stopping up of the wells. Isaac did not contend with them but peacefully withdrew to another place where he proceeded again to sow the seeds of his father. The Philistines again strove with him. He named this place Bezek, which means contention, and again he removed from them. The second name he gave was Sitnah, which means enmity. This willingness to remove from the enemy shows his willingness to be separated upon rather than to fight. The third time he dug wells there was no strife. The name given to this was Rehoboth, which means room. We should learn from his behavior that the way to have peace is to wear out our enemies with patience.

III. Isaac in Beersheba (vv. 23-33).

Immediately upon Isaac's going up from among the Philistines the Lord appeared to him. The Lord permits envy and strife in the world in order to get his children separated from them. Following this visitation by the Lord, Isaac built an altar and called upon His name. As soon as a meeting place with Jehovah was established he pitched his tent there. Following this his servants dug a well. No use going among the Philistines to get water.

After Isaac was established in Beersheba, Abimelech came desiring to make an alliance with him. He gained influence by peacefully withdrawing from them. Being thus convinced they desired to enter into covenant relationship with him. The way to gain influence with the world is to draw from it.

Noblest of All Victories

For a man to conquer himself is the first and noblest of all victories; whereas to be vanquished by himself is the basest and most shameful of all things.

Believing in Truth

Trying to have the courage of other people's convictions is a difficult task. One must really believe in a truth himself before he is willing to suffer for it.

SPEAK TO ME

Dear Lord, I need thy glad hand Every passing hour, Whose voice like thine, O Lord, Has saving power!

I need thy sweet cheering voice, To speak to me, In my grief and lonely life, None can cheer like Thine.

Speak, dear Lord, new to me, Thy presence here I need, Oh, hear me now as I call, Here the prayer, I plead.

Just speak, dear Lord, to me, To listen for thy call, Then set my only stay today, Oh, speak, before I fall.

I never listened in other days, For your voice divine, But now, dear Lord, I am waiting, Speak, my heart is thine.
